“After the pain in my head left, I was scared!
I could actually ‘see’ inside things and know things I shouldn’t!”

What happened to me is typical for a Medical Intuitive. Forty plus years ago I was stopped in the left hand turn lane for a red light. I glanced up just as the car behind struck my pickup. The police said the teenager was going approximately 50 m.p.h. at impact. He told them that he thought he could beat the light. He just didn’t see me.

My head flew forward into the windshield then snapped back into the rear window. The truck went up, came down and was struck again my head slammed into the side window. From the blows to my head, I suffered a contrecoup injury. That term simply means a traumatic, wide-spread injury to the brain being bruised due to a blow to the head. As a result, I began to know and understand things I’d not studied or been told.

“Unknowingly, overnight,
I had become a Medical Intuitive.”

I was scared! I could actually see inside solid objects including people and I knew things a normal person couldn’t, shouldn’t know. I’d had no exposure to the metaphysical, new age world or quantum physics.

The crash also caused severe pain and spasms in my upper back, shoulders and both arms and headaches. As my early training was in chiropractic care, I stayed with my parents so that my father, who was a chiropractor, could treatment me.

When I told my father I was hearing and knowing things and seeing inside solid objects including what I “saw” inside the body of a woman in this waiting room. Instead of afraid, he looked thrilled. Excited, he told me that he’d heard about what I was describing. He’d read about two men who had abilities similar to mine: Edgar Cayce and Peter Hurkos. (This happened before the internet.)

Edgar Cayce was a psychic who diagnosed and healed. Peter Hurkos was a carpenter who became psychic after he fell from a ladder. Hitting his head, he entered a four day coma and awaken psychic.

Before then I don’t think I’d ever heard the word psychic. I found more about Cayce and Hurkos and their abilities in out-of-print books. Comparing their experiences to mine, I realized that I wasn’t crazy. I was actually “seeing” inside bodies and things.

That injury was 48 years ago. The first time I saw inside a body was the woman in my father’s waiting room. I automatically knew what happened to cause her to be in pain and what she could do to help herself.

Her injury opened me to my current occupation as a Medical Intuitive. Within seconds of hearing or reading of a person’s problem I understand their situation and know how they can recover. Most of the time I also know exactly what caused the symptom in the first place and why it was not healing.

It was difficult for me to explain what I was seeing. I knew the fault was mine. At the time of the crash my life was simple. I was a working, owner-operator of a local bookstore with two children. I didn’t need to know how the body worked. Whatever I’d learned in chiropractic college about the body, specifically physiology was long forgotten.

My intuitive abilities go beyond knowing the current situation.
I know what to do to fix it.

With the collision and my new ability, I re-learned the name and function of the various organs, glands, etc.

I was able to explain not only what was causing a problem to remain, I knew what needed to be done to turn it off. I combine my intuitive abilities with my alternative health care knowledge for the optimum, holistic health care approach.

In 1997, it became apparent that my methods were not as effective as I'd thought. I was diagnosed with Fibromyalgia - a disease which medicine described as having no known cure.

Fully disabled and bedridden I decided not to believe the doctors that there was no cure. Instead, I decided to be the one to find it. I reasoned that medical researchers and alternative medicine researchers had been researching for over 90 years and failed to find a cure, then they must be looking in the wrong place.

This thinking eventually led to an investigation of Dr. Phineas Parkhurst Quimby (1802-1866) and his miracle cures. Combining Dr. Quimby's discoveries with my own, I knew what to do. Four session hours after I knew what to do I no longer had Fibromyalgia.

Hundred's of newspaper articles and letters praised Dr. Quimby's method of treatment. Copies of these articles were donated to The Library of Congress for their historical value.

Problem with the Body

When I learn a patient's symptom, if it's physical, I "see" the part of the body in trouble. I'd see how that organ is behaving. For example I may see that the Ileocecal valve is allowing material to flow back into the small intestine.

To the client I'd explain, "There's a little valve between your small intestine and colon. It's weakened. It's allowing food to back up and reenter your small intestines." Then I'd explain what that body needed to strengthen that valve.

Naoko was living in Tokyo when she sent an email with the hope we could help her. She was looking for a miracle.

Her life had become the four walls of her bedroom. She could not get out of bed. Both her legs were bent abnormally at the knee. They'd turned out in opposite directions. Looking down, she said her legs looked like a frog's.

I saw that she was poisoned by canned foods. I advised her to stop eating anything if it came from a can. I gave her a list of fresh foods and shipped certain supplements to get poisons out of her body.

It was 4 months before I heard from her again. She e-mailed to say "Thank you". She said it took her 3 months to get the poison out and her legs back.

While bedridden she supported herself translating English books into Japanese. Able to walk, she wrote that she was now able to take the subway to and from her new, higher paying job.

Problem with a Non-Physical Issue:

Best described by what it is not, my Quimby's Method sessions give no medicine, vitamins, herbs, bodywork, adjustments, massages, and touching.

According to Dr. Quimby, the cause of all unwanted conditions and symptoms was the result of a simple change of mind. Unwanted conditions form when a decision is made to believe something that is not true. Usually it starts when they believe that they have no choice, that they were not in control. Just before they started to believe that, they had a choice. The choice was whether to believe it or not. When they chose to believe it, their situation changed and the spiral down starts.

During our 'visit' I'll ask you a specific set of questions in order to cause your mind to recall the choice. Changing your mind immediately after remembering the specific choice will turn off the downward spiral. The change will in turn cause your unwanted present day conditions to change.

Quimby's Method has been able to solve various problems with:
Relationships, Career, life, Family, Finances,
Health, Personality, Failing, Learning, Assets, etc.

Referrals Out :

If I'm not able to help you, I'll usually know who or which branch of the healing arts will. Often, I'll know the exact name and location of a doctor, therapist or healer to refer you to.

The Lamborghini Of Healing

One hundred twenty-five health care professionals were given an opportunity to observe the dramatic results of one of my Quimby's Method Sessions.

As the result of a shower glass door accident, Lisa Franklin spent the evening in an emergency room. She required 8 stitches. Lisa's husband was one of the professionals scheduled to attend my demonstration the next morning. He called to ask if I would use his wife for one of the demonstrations and relieve her pain.

"Of course, I'd love to do it provided she can remain drug free for the demonstration," I said.

The next morning she arrived cupping her elbow pale to lessen the pain. She held her hand up to avoid an increase of blood flow and pain. I invited her forward to the front of the room to the tall bar stool..

Five doctors examined her hand. It was a puffy, red, swollen mass with four, thick black X's where the emergency room doctor had put in the stitches. Each concluded that her hand was typical of one that had suffered a deep cut within the previous 18 hours.

I stood beside her so the audience could watch. Thirty minutes into the session, Lisa didn't seem to notice (but the audience did) that she'd put her hand down as she started laughing. An hour later, still not touching her, I asked if her hand hurt.

She looked bewildered, as if she'd forgotten why she was sitting in front of the audience of doctors. At first she gently felt her injury. Then she poked it. What she did next surprised even me. She slammed it against the edge of the stool several times. She looked a little confused and said, "There's no pain. It doesn't hurt at all."

The doctors re-examined her hand. There was no sign of an injury; just four black X's. The skin showed no sign that it had been pulled back together. No puffiness. No redness. No thin red line.

Dr. Russell Loveland, a Chiropractor in practice for over twenty years, was in the audience.

"The first time that I heard there was someone who knew how to heal using logic alone, I knew they had something. After that demonstration, I realized that this method is the Lamborghini of Healing."
